Sinisa I. Zimek
SAP Labs, LLC

Sinisa Zimek is Director of XML and Java-based technology architectures at SAP Labs, California. He is responsible for planning and driving SAP's strategy in technology architectures and open Internet standards in the United States. Sinisa is member of the WS-I Board of Directors (Web Services Interoperability organization), Advisory Board member of XML.org as well as co-chair of the WS-I Sample Applications work group. He is active member of various work groups including the W3C Web Services Architecture Working Group and OASIS ebXML Messaging technical committee. Sinisa brings over 15 years of experience in the software industry including development, consulting and research. Sinisa holds a M.S. degree in Computer Science; his academic background includes research in the fields of computer supported collaborative work and human computer interactions.